WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—President Roosevelt, in a report placing lend-lease aid to America at $18,600,000,000, said today he had "seen a year of decisive action in the air."

The United Nations increased their powers of the axis and had "beat-

Thirteenth Report,

The report, his thirteenth on lend-lease since the program began in March, 1941, was sent to the Secretary of the Senate and the House.

On the end of November, the program took 13.5 cents out of every dollar of American war expenditures.

Although the first eleven months of 1943 accounted for $10,750,000,000 of the total of lend-lease aid, compared with $7,-

000,000 in all of 1942, the report showed the flow had been increasing every month since a peak was reached last August.

The total included money spent for such services as training communities and repairing ships, as well as good.

By the assistance actively given to recipient nations at rates up to $13,844,000,000 in October—more than one and a half times the sum for all of 1942. Munitions accounted for $15,741,000,000, an increase of 142, per cent over the corresponding 12 months of 1942.

Total lend-lease goods under $5,350,000,000 of the total in the United Kingdom $5,-

Part of the report apparently was destined to answer criticism by senators who opposed war theaters.

The section hummed at the fact that lend-lease items are marked to show they originated in the U.S.A. Some critics said the British were underrepresented in lend-lease goods under on labels.

Spike Gas Stories

A small section evidently was written to report civilians in Africa were burning up

gasoline while motor

this country were combusted. It said all oil colonies by allied head-and essential civilian

in the first eight months of the year got less than a penny a gallon normally consumed.

The fuel, the report

allocated for pleasure and non-essential services aircraft requisitioned in 1942 and added: "Since in many cases are not marked as military vehicle, it may lead to causal observes that more cars

gasoline for civilian than the fact."

A minute fraction of one of America's coal produced moved into lend-

lease, the report said.

It said, "it is the only one on the list for lend-lease which had received 33,500 tons aid to Russia in the months of last year was his cent over all of 1942,

ordnance and other was not seen to crash, constituting 50 per cent of the total lend-lease aid we have received," the report asserted.

ALLIED RING OF STEEL AROUND GERMANY is being tightened more and more rapidly. The final powerful thrust will come when the western front is opened. Then, as the map above shows, the Russians, the Americans, the British and the fighting men of the occupied countries will concentrate their march on Berlin. The Soviet forces already are well started on the road to the Nazi capital, having put the old Polish-U. S. S. R. border behind them in their winter offensive.

GIANT FIRMS Gov. Bricker Takes Hand In NAMED IN SUIT Probe of Gambling SuicideDemands Full Report from Lucas County Officials on Death of Man Who Lost $30,000.

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 6—Gov. Bricker stepped today into an investigation of the death of George D. Wilcox, 18-year-old Detroit advertising executive who left a series of notes saying he intended to kill himself after losing $30,000 to Toledo gamblers.

In a formal statement at Columbus, the governor ordered Lucas county officials to forward him a full report of their investigation and ordered them to close "all gambling establishments and keep them closed."

Unless that is done at once, the governor said, the attorney general will begin an investigation which will include "failure of officials to enforce the laws."

Attorney General Francis Biddle said the complaint, filed in United States district court in New York City, alleged restraint of trade in the manufacture of chemical products, fire arms, and ammunition.

Biddle said if local officials want to act, said Bricker.

The full statement issued by Bricker's office follows:

Governor Bricker today ordered Sheriff Charles L. Hennessey and Prosecutor Joe S. Rhinehart, Lucas county officials, to give him a complete report on the gambling situation in Lucas county which was brought to his attention by a fellow Marine.

Bricker's order was directed to Prosecutor Joel S. Rhinehart and Sheriff Charles L. Hennessey of Lucas county. They already were going forward with an investigation of the death of Wilcox, who was found in his room in a downtown hotel late yesterday.

By The Associated Press

GUADALCANAL, Jan. 6—Major Gregory Boyington of Okanogan, Wash., was officially credited today with shooting down his 26th Japanese plane to tie the record set by a fellow Marine, Major Joe Foss.

Boyington, a former member of the "Flying Tigers" in China, will be honored as the 26th plane in a raid on Rabaul, New Britain.

More than 50 fighters participated in the sweep over the Rabaul airfield shot down six of 20 intercepting Zeros, with five more listed as probables. Two Corsairs were lost.

The 30 year old flier, leading in both the south and southwest Pacific sectors, brought down his 26th enemy plane Dec. 26 over Rabaul. On Dec. 28, he was shot down in his plane but was listed only as a probable since it was not seen to crash.

What Happens If Reds Hit Berlin Before Allies?

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The sleepy news-stand attendant at my small suburban railway station, with whom I call for each morning on the status of the war, asked me whether the war was over or not. It's important to know this, because of the enormous amount of news and rumors which are likely to pass by when we cross the English Channel.

He reached Berlin ahead of the Americans into full partnership, the United States and England. Moscow had been invaded and the understanding was that the three would go to war.

Now these three dominant powers are in an active war apparently to ensure Soviet domination in post-war Europe. It also provides a sphere of friendly tranquillity which should enable solutions of post-war differences which are bound to arise. That doesn't mean that we aren't going to encounter some pretty stiff heart-burnings, but there's a good hope that with a reasonable degree of give-and-take the problems will be solved.

Thus there would seem to be no cause for panic over the thought of the Russians reaching Berlin first. I do think, though, that we should be rather naive to believe that if our Soviet allies did get there ahead of us, they wouldn't display some of the usual traits of human nature under such circumstances. Human nature would be inclined to accept at least a modicum of the prestige and other benefits which accrue to the early bird.

Prisoners Work for Freedom

... each day on materials for war effort. They're making parts for tanks, ships, planes, etc., for the defense of our country. This is a great example of patriotic cooperation.

These men are in a Marion War Prison. Some of them have been there since the summer, but others came to be here this month. They're doing the next best thing.

Everyone works on the rock, working maximum hours, except those held under federal parole. Those men available now are helping maintain the defense equipment and sanitation system.

Recently we received a special "War Bonds" from the Navy. Our workers, like those in the shipyards, were also expected to contribute their share of the war effort.

It's not hard to imagine the fact the men are working in a defense plant and doing industry work for Army people, along with normal defense work, for the Army quartermaster corps and repairing and cleaning used clothing, operating a clothing factory where old jackets and khaki trousers are made and reconditioned and stored for use.

Reams' collection of early cardinates for state office nominations multiplied today, as time grew shorter for circulation of petitions for entry in the May primaries.

Reams' collector of internal revenue at Toledo announced his resignation, leading observers to believe he would enter the Democratic race for governor. The Hatch act forbids federal employees to engage in political activity.

Reams' announcement came shortly after James W. Huffman, Columbus attorney and son-in-law of former Democratic governor Vic Donahue, obtained nominating petitions for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Huffman recently resigned as chief counsel for the Columbus district of the office of price administration.

George E. Turner, retiring corporation counsel in the secretary of state's office, announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for state auditor.

Turner was an unsuccessful candidate for the nomination of lieutenant governor in 1934 and was runner-up for the nomination for secretary of state in 1938. Judge Clyde C. Sherick of Ashland obtained nominating petitions for Republican nomination for chief justice of the Ohio supreme court. He now is serving on the fifth district court of appeals.

Ted W. Brown of Springfield obtained petitions for nomination for secretary of state.

At Baltimore, Charles Sawyer, Ohio Democratic national committeeman, said he thought all his state's delegates to the national convention would be pledged to W. A. Julian, treasurer of the United States, as a favorite son candidate for the presidential nomination.

News Behind the News

Russian Debt Believed Small Compared with That of United States.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—No one seems to question my argument that Soviet Russia has no debts, but it will burden the economy of Britain and the United States for generations to come. More significant, however, is the fact that only one man in the United States has ever been a student of Soviet finance, who wrote a pamphlet three or four years ago. He discovered what few international bankers know today, that Russia has a small debt estimated at about 40 million rubles.

My own inquisitiveness on this officially hidden subject, an understanding of which is essential to development of workable economic and political relations with Russia in the postwar period, has adduced private estimates from unenlightened authorities that the debt is probably 60,000,000,000 rubles today, but no one can estimate how much that is. Real worth of the ruble against the dollar is probably best estimated by the value of the free black market, the one almost officially conducted on the side for the benefit of visiting diplomats and newspapermen. There, the ruble has run 50 to 1 against the dollar, making it worth approximately 3 cents, although the seldom used banking rate is 5 to 1, and the official diplomatic rate is 12 to 1. If you take the black market face, the Russian debt is $1,200,000,000, banking rate $12,000,000,000 while ours is 133 times as much under the first calculation, and 14 times as much under the second (lend-lease is not a financial debt, as it will be repaid in goods.)

Debt Analyzed

This debt represents two kinds of bonds held to her people, one being a lottery prize bond. Orthodox American liberals may chide to hear such government funds are raised by a terrific sales tax or turnover tax sometimes totalling 200 per cent of the price, and an income tax. Seventy per cent of the normal budget has been contributed in taxes by the workers, the other 30 per cent by the peasant farmers. Since the German invasion unified Russia, the peasants have contributed more, turning any leftover money in Moscow. One collectivist

This country can't have its cake and eat it. That one goes back to the notion that a war economy could be super-imposed on a civilian economy and no one would have to give up anything—and the notion dies hard. Another notion which needs to be thrown out with the trash is that the United States is doing all right when it is doing well enough to satisfy itself. That's some sort of a hangover from isolation. An American patriot in this war has not done his job until he has done the best he can—and that leaves a lot of leeway for improvement. As long as there is an American fighting man waiting for something to fight with, or an ally of this country waiting for something we could put in his hands to hasten victory and save lives, the national war effort cannot be called satisfactory.

It is reported that President Roosevelt may tackle the threatened disintegration of American unity with forthright action early this year. But aside from appealing for a higher resolve and a stronger sense of cooperation, there is something the chief executive should do which Mr. Roosevelt apparently cannot do. The sources of confusion which produce misunderstanding and bitterness need to be removed, and administrative confusion has been as integral a part of the Roosevelt administration as Mrs. Roosevelt.

Confusion in dealing with organized labor's demands can be traced to divided and muddled authority and policies for dealing with those demands. Labor has been led to think it can behave as it is behaving not by some mysterious impulse peculiar to itself, but by plain, ordinary awareness of the fact that its behavior has been paying off. When this government let itself be walked around by John L. Lewis, it invited every other labor leader to try the same tactics. And further back than that, when the Roosevelt administration began to monkey with the political dynamite of setting labor against management to keep things lively at the polls, it made certain that if it ever needed them pulling a double harness to save the country as a war emergency there would be a lot of residual hard feelings left over.

Mistakes of the past can't be undone. The job now is to pull together to win the greatest possible victory with the least possible sacrifice of life. Americans can fight each other, if they choose to do it that way. They can vent their spleen, unleash their arrogance and unbridge their tongues—and they will have one of the nastiest messes in history. Or they can do it the other way and win the war in a hurry. It's time to give more thought to the possibilities of doing it the other way.

Objective Reached

THE air field on New Britain island, which had been the principal objective of our forces, has been taken. The slow approach to Rabaul now can be speeded up.

Anticipation of great events to come in Europe during 1944 should not be felt at the expense of anticipation in the war with Japan. While 1944 is not expected to be the showdown year in the Pacific, it should bring the turning point from the painful tedious campaign that began after Pearl Harbor to the emergence of the strategy of decisive assault. The preliminary moves in that direction will have been virtually completed when Rabaul is gone, leaving the reduction of the Truk islands as the last obstacle to our naval and air forces closing in on Japan from the ocean.

On land, the campaign in Burma is scheduled to get under way. Admiral King has sketched the possibilities in his declaration that naval forces may be concentrated in the Pacific even before the end of the war with Germany. That would mean, since the Japanese war is primarily one of shipping, that the tempo of attack could be quickened to a point where Japan simply could not hold the pace of its own strategy, which was to seize and exploit an island empire before the United States and Great Britain could bring their superior naval strength to bear.

For the gallant men in the Pacific, a special kind of New Year's greeting is in order. If they sometimes feel as though they were being neglected as far as appreciation is concerned, it is because their ability is taken for granted. "Objective reached" is their terse way of acknowledging confidence in them is justified.

Steel Wages

Steel facts, published by American Iron and Steel Institute, reports that weekly pay envelopes of the steel industry's wage earners in September, this year contained an average of $32.55 for each employee—$18.60 more than the average weekly take-home pay in January, 1941, base month for earnings under the "little steel" wage formula.

The magazine also reports that average hourly earnings of steel employees have increased about 53 per cent since January, 1941, from 80.6 cents to $1.16. Because of the longer work week and time and a half rates for overtime, the rise in weekly wages has outstripped the increase in hourly earnings.

The fourth period will begin when the accumulated demands of consumers have been satisfied. Just when this post-war period will begin and what it will bring is pretty much of a guess, the economists admit.

F. F. Elliott, chief agricultural economist of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, says "we might be astute enough in developing our domestic and international policies to have the relatively favorable conditions that are expected to prevail in the third period merge into the post-war period proper and continue indefinitely."

On the other hand, without such policies we easily could run into a serious economic depression as soon as the accumulated demand is met." He said.

The crucial problem, of course, is how to maintain employment and how to keep our economy on an expanding basis."

"THE LONG LONG TRAIL"

"The Long Long Trail" was drawn by Jay N. (Ding) Darling, famous cartoonist, in final tribute to Theodore Roosevelt who died in his sleep at his home in Oyster Bay, N. Y., Jan. 6, 1919. It is reproduced on the 25th anniversary of his death through the courtesy of Mr. Darling and the New York Herald Tribune.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Jan. 6, 1934.

Col. John A. Hughes, director of the new Ohio liquor control board, announced that managers and staffs of the state's liquor stores would be chosen and operate under civil service regulations.

Frank Mitchell, 62, died suddenly at his home on Charles street.

A Marion department store advertisement urged customers to stock up on pure silk hose at 88 cents a pair.

Frank M. Mealey, 73, Richwood native and a newspaperman, died in Tiffin hospital.

Miss Martha Miller was given a surprise party at her home on the Delaware pike in honor of her eighteenth birthday anniversary.

The first period is from the end of the war in Europe until the defeat of Japan. If the war in the Pacific continues for an extended period, say 18 to 24 months after Germany's fall, there will be more time for gradual demobilization and partial reversion of industry. This might mean fewer bottlenecks and less chance for a recession in business and employment.

If Japan is quickly conquered,

there might be a fairly sharp slump in business. However, the economists believe that regardless of the duration of the war

in the Pacific, the demands for food will remain high because of large purchases for foreign retail.

Normally, the people's food buying power is limited only by a saving coupon" in the form of dollar bills in their pocketbooks.

The tremendous increase in wartime food buying, resulting chiefly from more workers getting more money, is proving that,

Varies with Wage Level

Back in 1939, the average weekly earnings in manufacturing industries were $25.86 and the cash farm income was about eight billion dollars. Recently, the average weekly earnings were $41.39 and the estimated cash farm income for 1943 was a record-breaking 19.9 billion dollars. That is a 50 per cent increase in the cash income from farm products derived from the money incomes of consumers in this country.

Of particular importance to farmers is the fact that when the nation's increased income goes largely to low-income consumers, much of the increase is spent for food. Thus happens when there is full employment.

If Japan is quickly conquered,

there might be a fairly sharp

slump in business. However, the

economists believe that regard-

less of the duration of the war

in the Pacific, the demands for

food will remain high because of

large purchases for foreign retail.

If the invasion is not successful, we may be in for a grueling struggle in which a high degree of national discipline will be particularly necessary.

Strikes and the threats of strikes are not the only impediments to the full and swift protection of the war.

Jobs-for-all programs sponsored by business, public works programs, soldier bonuses and social security benefits might temper the recession in employment.

Because of large accumulated savings in the hands of consumers and direct action by the government to maintain purchasing power, the demand for farm products should not drop proportionately as much as business activity.

All these things combined, the strikes and the legislative raids are due to a double standard of morals—a different standard for civilians than for soldiers. The enactment of universal service is the only way of registering the principle that every adult person has a public obligation which comes before his private interests.

We are now at the beginning of the active engineering which will lead through the primaries and the conventions to a national election. Politics can not be abolished or adjourned. But politics should be subject to the interests of the nation which is at war, and the one comprehensive way to achieve that is to impose on every politician and every voter the personal obligation of service.

This will help to remind him that the election is taking place during a great war.

Preferred To Anti-Strike Law

Universal service is a fair and more intelligent measure than specific legislation outlawing strikes and aimed at the unions.

The unions are not the only sinners. The positive obligation of each individual to serve the country as a far better thing to insist upon than a negative rule forbidding strikes. It will deal with many other forms of avoidance of public duty—for example,

MRS. RAY L. WILLIAMS of 702 East Church street entertained last evening to announce the engagement of her daughter, Betty Jane, to Ensign John Christian Roberts of the U. S. Navy. No date has been set for the wedding. Mrs. Williams, a graduate of Hardin High school, attended Miami university where she affiliated with Sigma Kappa sorority, and is a teller at the Marion County bank. Ensign Roberts, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Roberts of 251 East Church street, recently completed his officer's training at Midshipman school, Northwestern university, Chicago, and is home on a short leave. He is graduated from Hardin High school and last June received his degree from Dartmouth college. His fraternity is Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Following an evening of bridge the guests were invited to the dining room where Mr. Roberts and Mrs. Elton Williams, aunt of the bride-elect, presided. The flower centerpiece of pink snapdragons held a huge engagement ring fashioned in silver and tinsel and at either side was a double crystal candelabra holding white lighted tapers. Favors of tiny folders with heart cutouts carrying pictures of Miss Williams and her fiance marked the places. Completing the decorative theme was an arrangement of junquils and acacia on the buffet.

LEAP YEARS MAKE NEWS

By The Associated Press
The earth travels around the sun once a year—almost. Each round trip takes approximately one-fourth of a day extra, so every four years we have a Leap Year (like 1944), with Feb. 29 thrown in to catch up. But this correction is a little too much, so only about one out of every four "centesimal" years is counted as a leap year. If a centesimal year can be divided evenly by 400 it is a leap year. Thus 1600 was a leap year; 1700, 1800 and 1900 were not; 2000 will be.

Here are some leap year events of the past:

Territorial Dispute Splits Russia and Poland Wider Apart

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—Russia and the Polish government-in-exile appeared farther apart than ever in their territorial dispute, which might speed the rout of German armies in Poland, which gives added importance to the forthcoming visit of Polish Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk. Stems from the Polish government's contention that Russia should honor pre-war Poland's territorial integrity before her people is to join the Soviet Union.

In July, 1941, after Germany attacked Russia, Russia and Poland signed an agreement by which Russia voided the 1935 partitioning agreement. The Poles claimed this new arrangement restored the old boundaries. The Russians argued that the areas they had occupied already were a part of Russia.

Both insist the contested areas are integral parts of Russia and the western Ukraine.

Yesterday an editorial of the Communist party or- gанизed other territories in Russia as interested are Russian questions, not British interests.

The Soviet information bulletin yesterday spoke of the areas as having been lib- erated from the yoke of Hitler's henchmen.

Leader of the dispute from the Polish angle already is being sought by the Polish government in that organization.

The Polish government announced yesterday that its members had been instructed to full cooperation with the Allies only in event diplomatic relations were reestablished.

With the roots of the present war deeply imbedded in the immediate difficulties in 1939.

In summer of that year, when Germany began the war by attacking Poland from the west, Russia moved in from the east.

Moscow and Berlin subsequently made an agreement partitioning the country.

Subsequently the Russians held elections in their area and announced an overwhelming vote of

Grandmothers on Job

By The Associated Press

LONDON—A large British war factory has a new unit for measuring production—the "grand hour."

This is the term used, and very respectfully, by factory management for the 350 hours of work contributed voluntarily by 52 energetic grandmothers and one great-grandmother.

The grey-haired women, most of whom worked in war factories during the last war, do vital jobs soldering, paint-spraying, drilling and assembling. The plant manager said that they are among his most efficient and dependable workers.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles Cornbrink.
